Conferences Anticipating Visit From Britain's Prime Minister

WASHINGTON (AP) — Con- ferences opening today between British Foreign Secretary Pat- ick Gordon Walker and top U.S. officials are expected to lay the groundwork for a Wash- ington visit next month by Prime Minister Harold Wilson.

Gordon Walker, who told newsmen on his arrival Sunday that he came with an open mind and no new proposals, meets today with Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon.

He is scheduled to meet Tues- day with President Johnson.

The meetings are the first between Washington officials and a leading spokesman for the Labor government which won the British elections Oct. 15.

A newsman asked Gordon Walker about the British posi- tion on admitting Red China to the United Nations, and he re- plied tersely that the position is unchanged. The Labor govern- ment is on record as favoring Peking's admittance to the world organization.

Would the U.S.-proposed mul- tilateral force be an answer to the current troubles of the North Atlantic Treaty Organi- zation alliance?

"Some say so," replied the foreign secretary. "We have our own views about that."

The new London government is known to be cool to Washing- ton's idea of establishing a sur- face fleet of 25 ships equipped with Polaris nuclear missiles and manned by mixed crews from the various NATO nations. Gordon Walker declined to say whether he came to renegoti- ate the 1961 Nassau agreement between former British Prime Minister Harold MacMillan and the late President John F. Ken- nedy.

Wilson and Gordon Walker reportedly said during the Brit- ish election campaign that they would renegotiate the agree- ment under which the United States said it would furnish Polaris missiles for British submarines and ships.

What about his government's 3 1/2-hour stoppage this morning. Operating personnel belonging to the Red-led General Confed- eration of Italian Labor had struck for those hours each day since Oct. 20.

Auto Strike Ended; GM Still Hobbled

Trouble at Local Levels Threaten Return to Work

DETROIT (AP) — Despite ending of a 31-day national walkout against General Motors Corp., the plant of the automak- ing industry was hobbled today by local-level strikes that threaten to snuff out new opera- tions.

The question of when the com- pany that normally turns out more than half the nation's new automobiles might get any as- sembly lines going again was unanswered. One company source guessed: "Within a cou- ple of days, maybe."

The United Auto Workers union announced Sunday night that 95 of 97 local unions report- ing had given "overwhelming ratification" to a new three- year national contract.

The UAW announced that the national strike was "terminat- ed," but, at the same time, said the 23 local units which had not reached at-the-plant working agreements which supplement the national contract would stay out.

At the time 102 of the UAW's 130 units in GM's empire had reached local-level settlement.

With announcement of the national strike's ending, GM called back maintenance and make-ready crews in the Pon- tiac Division at Pontiac, Mich., the Buick Division at Flint, Mich., and the Buick-Oldsmo- bile-Pontiac plant in Kansas City, Kan.

Power Struggle Among Top Bureaucrats Is Anticipated

WASHINGTON (AP) — Presi- dent Johnson has been advised by government experts on So- viet affairs that the ouster of Premier Khrushchev has dam- aged the prestige of Soviet lead- ership at home and abroad and rendered uncertain the future course of Soviet policy toward the West.

These are among the princi- pal conclusions reached in a new study of the sudden, sensa- tional shakeup in the Kremlin earlier this month. Other con- clusions reported to the Presi- dent, according to informed officials.

Future Prospects

1. The best guess about the future prospects for Khrushchev's successor is that a power struggle probably cannot be avoided. The experts say that Communist party boss Leonid I. Brezhnev and Premier Alexei N. Kosygin appear to represent the two bureaucracies of the party and the government and these together with the competitive interests of the military and industrial estab- lishment set the stage for a power struggle.

2. Factionalism in the Soviet Union tends to hurt Soviet inter- ests internally and externally. The destabilization program of a decade ago is cited as a case in point. It was one of the issues over which Communist China axed the prestige of Soviet lead- ership at home and abroad and rendered uncertain the future course of Soviet policy toward the West.

3. The violent wrench which resulted from the sudden ouster of Khrushchev has displayed to the world what experts here term the uglier side of Kremlin politics and this has been a principal contribution to the loss of Soviet prestige. It renders virtually all important aspects of Soviet policy uncertain.

4. While Brezhnev and Kosy- gin have reaffirmed Khrushchev's policy of coexistence, the new men and their jockey- Turn to Page 11, Col. 1

WINNIPEG, Man. (AP) — The Soviet Union has bought 10.6 million bushels of wheat and wheat flour from Canada, the Canadian Wheat Board an- nounced today.

The cash sale is worth around $21 million.

Shipment will be made through St. Lawrence and Atlantic ports starting next month. The sale involves 250,000 long tons of wheat and 25,000 long tons of flour.

Campaigning in South

Johnson Charges GOP Using Wild, Impulsive Statements

MACON, Ga. (AP) — Presi- dent Johnson, campaigning in the South, accused his oppo- nents today of using "wild water, his Republican rival, charged and impulsive state- ments" in hopes they can gain office and "radically change the American way of life."

Johnson, zipping through Florida, Georgia and South Carolina, in his blue and silver jet transport, said there is only one course open to the voters on Nov. 3.

"We must crush this threat to American life," he said. "We must restore the health of our two-party system. And we must get on with the work of building America."

Direct Appeals
Several times, Johnson seized opportunities to aim his cam- paign appeals directly at his audiences.

In effect, he said, "The South will rise again," and promised to help out in that direction.

The President, in a speech prepared for delivery at Jack- sonville, Fla., hit directly at his campaign opponents, but with- out mentioning Barry Gold- water, his Republican rival.

Said Johnson: "Under the right hand.

In his Macon text, the Presi- dent said he is convinced Amer- ica wants a "politics of national unity."

Johnson said that once the election returns are in, "Ameri- ca will know — the world will know — that in this land of the free, there is no North, no South, no East, no West."

'Scared of Humphrey' Is Goldwater Keynote

SALISBURY, Md. (AP) — Goldwater said President Sen. Barry Goldwater, keynot- ing the windup week of his pres- idential campaign, told a Mary- land crowd today he is "scared stiff" at the prospect of Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey ever be- coming president.

Goldwater said also that Presi- dent Johnson is "looking for" what Goldwater called a man- date for socialism.

The Republican presidential nominee aimed much of his fire at Humphrey, the Democratic vice presidential contender, as he did Saturday in Texas.

Goldwater said flatly Johnson "is not doing the job of the pres- ident in either world affairs or on the domestic scene."

Goldwater said both Hum- phrey and Johnson want a planned economy.

"Now, I don't care how you spell this thing out," Goldwater said.

"When you control the econo- my, you are in a socialized economy," he told a crowd that turned out on a balmy Indian Summer day to stand in a big many Bobby Bakers were over semicircle around the front of the Salisbury Civic Center.

Not Clear Who's On Hot Line Now

Soviet Shakeup Leaves U. S. Wondering About Russian End

BY HENRY S. BRADSHAW
MOSCOW (AP) — Who's on the hot line now? Whose finger is on the nuclear rocket button? Until Nikita Khrushchev's unexpected ouster last week, the answer to both questions was simple — and the same. Now it's more complicated. If President Johnson decides to have a talk on his direct line to the Kremlin, he presumably would get Alexei N. Kosygin. As premier, Kosygin heads the Soviet government.

But such significant things as the lineup of portraits of Soviet leaders displayed in Moscow show that Leonid I. Brezhnev is the top man now. He took over Khrushchev's job as Communist party first secretary.

Top Man
In the last 40 years of Communist rule, the party secretary has always been top man: he has been premier only 18 of those years. The premier the time commander in chief for role in January 1960, when Soviet military forces as John-viet military doctrine formally son is commander in chief of accepted rockets with ther- the American military estab- monuclear warheads as the principal weapon.

One Man Best
Under the Soviet constitution, the Presidium of the Supreme Soviet, which declares war and concludes peace, is presumably the top commander. But the modern warfare requires quick reactions. That means a clear-cut process of taking decisions. The clearest way is for one man to be responsible.

Lacking an officially proclaimed commander in chief, Premier Kosygin might seem to be the man. But his portrait is second, and what No. 1 man would want to turn over the decision on massive devastation to his deputy?

On the other hand, if the Russians mean anything at all by their constitution, how can a man like Brezhnev — who technically is not even part of the government — have his finger on the button?

Many non-Communist observers of the Soviet scene have felt the system naturally gravitates toward one-man rule.

If the trend continues, Brezhnev will follow the example of Stalin and Khrushchev and add the premiership to the party leadership, or some other man will move in and ultimately take both jobs.

Largest in Years

Report Big California Democrat Registration

BY ROB WOOD
SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — California, one of the big and vital states in the 1964 presidential election, has reported its heaviest Democratic registration in 14 years.

The Democrats claim 57.9 per cent of the state's record 8,184,155 eligible voters.

The Republicans have 38.9 per cent with the remainder distributed between miscellaneous and those who declined to state party preference.

Not since 1950 have the Democrats had such a margin. That year the percentage was Democrats 58.4, Republicans 37.1.

Republicans point out that in 1950 Earl Warren, now Chief Justice of the United States, won his third term as governor for the Republican candidate by defeating Democrat James A. Roosevelt.

Other Races
The largest Democratic margin in the past 42 years was their presidential candidate, 1942 — 60.2 per cent to 35.9 — and that year Warren a Republican, won his first term as effort by the Democrats and governor, besting incumbent Democrat Culbert Olson.

The 1962 percentage favored the Democrats, 56.9 to 39.8. Republican presidential candidate Barry Goldwater has listed California, with its 40 electoral votes, as one of the four key states in his bid for the White House. The others are Texas, Illinois and Ohio.

In the 1960 presidential election, when Republican Richard of the registration on the Gold-M. Nixon carried California, the water campaign."

Democrats had a registration edge of 1.2 million. This year it is 1.55 million.

Democrats see the registration as an indication of Goldwater's defeat in the nation's most populous state.

Republicans shrug off the figures as just statistics.

The state Democratic chairman, Roger Kent, said the registration gains reflected a repudiation of Goldwater.

John P. Vukasin Jr., an official of the Volunteer Citizens for Goldwater organization, said there was no connection between the registration total and the presidential race.

Not a Slap
Kent said the Democratic gains could be credited to a "startling lack of enthusiasm" for the Republican candidate by the Republican platform.

Kent said the swing toward the Democratic party is not a slap at the GOP "but simply at the registration gain. Kent said, also reflects a "serious lack of enthusiasm" for the Republican candidate by the Republican platform.

Kent predicted that 35 per cent of the Republican vote in the Democrats, 56.9 to 39.8. Northern California would go to President Johnson. Vukasin took a different view. "A large number of people coming into California," he said, "are from areas where they traditionally register as Democrats."

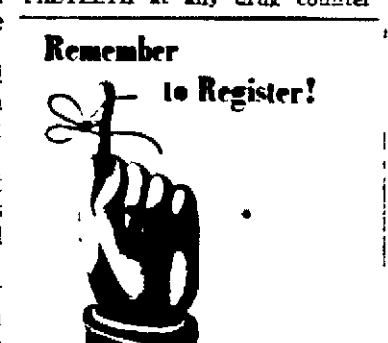

"I can see no adverse affects on the Gold-M. Nixon carried California, the water campaign."

Laborites Attack Economic Problem

Sweeping Emergency Program Would Reduce British Money Gap

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Harold Wilson's new Labor government announced a sweeping new emergency program designed to reduce a $2-billion gap between Britain's imports and exports.

U. S. Applauds Move By British Government

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Treasury welcomed Britain's new economic plans as prompt and effective measures to protect the stability of the pound.

The statement estimated the nation's 1964 trading account will show Britain will have spent about $2 billion more abroad than she will have earned. Chancellor of the Exchequer James Callaghan told a news conference Britain's overseas trade gap has never been higher.

that lie ahead," said Callaghan. Economic Minister George Brown spoke of the need for "a strict review of all government expenditure."

The government statement said the French have been advised that the British government wants to review the two countries' joint project to develop the supersonic Concorde jet airliner. It is budgeted at about $300 million but some experts have predicted it will cost more.

Borrowing From Fund

The statement said the government's economic program also includes borrowing from the International Monetary Fund to bolster the pound sterling.

Britain can draw up to $1 billion from the fund provided she repays it within a stated period.

The statement said the Labor government is satisfied that with available facilities the strength of the pound "can and will be maintained."

Economic Aid Plan Posed By Reynolds

Gov. John W. Reynolds has proposed development of a "little Appalachian plan" for areas in Northern Wisconsin, Minnesota and Upper Michigan when the swollen River Sava broke its dikes.

After two weeks of steady rains in northwest Yugoslavia, swollen rivers flooded big areas in Slovenia and Croatia.

One person drowned. Helicopters and boats rescued about 200 persons marooned on roofs of houses in Zagreb. Telephone connections with Austria and West Germany were interrupted.

Industries on the outskirts of Zagreb stopped work because of the evacuation operation.

Soon a 4-foot by 9-foot white marble slab will be placed over the grave. Another will be placed for his wife, whose body is to be brought here from California.

Elaborate Records

Elaborate records of Hoover's rise to fame and riches after leaving West Branch 80 years ago as an orphan are in the Herbert Hoover Library, near the cottage where he was born.

Hoover's father, Jesse, a blacksmith, died in 1880. His mother, Huldah, died three years later. Hoover at 10 went to Oregon to live with an uncle.

He never came back to West Branch to live, but his eldest son, Herbert Hoover Jr., said he had never forgotten "this modest Quaker community."

"Years ago he told us he wished to be buried near his birthplace," the son said in a statement.

"In Iowa he always felt a warmth of understanding and a genuine welcome that was a part of his own heritage."

Memorial Services

Hoover died last Tuesday in his suite at New York City's Waldorf-Astoria Towers. His body was brought back to West Branch after memorial services in New York and in Washington.

Herbert Jr., the other son, Allan, their wives and families sat on wooden folding chairs during the 25-minute service.

Other invited mourners, including Republican presidential candidate Barry Goldwater, huddled on a chair in the West Branch residents who remembered Hoover as a boy, Walter L. Thomas, 91.

Francis A. Braatz, 26, of route 3, Burlington, was killed in a Kenosha County accident Sunday night. Authorities said his car rolled over after missing a curve on Highway 50 in Wheatland township 22 miles west of Kenosha.

A Kenosha County squad car speeding to the scene of the accident went out of control on a curve and hit a utility pole about half a mile from the crash in which Braatz was killed. The squad car was demolished. Deputy James Heiring was hospitalized and reported in fair condition. The other deputy in the car, Donald Kreth escaped serious injury.

Ikedu Decision

Liberal-Democratic party leaders unanimously approved Ikeda's decision and will formally accept the resignation Tuesday.

The two major opposition parties, the Socialists and the Democratic Socialists, demanded dissolution of the Diet and new parliamentary elections.

Most politicians were surprised by Ikeda's announcement but pressure began mounting for his resignation last week, even within his own party. Ikeda has led the nation from his bedside since he entered the National Cancer Clinic Sept. 9.

Ikeda, premier for four years, is considered largely responsible for Japan's stable government and recent boom.

Criticism of Red Regime Is Growing

GENEVA (AP) — The Swiss Communist party joined other West European Reds today in demanding a public explanation from the Kremlin for the removals used to oust Khrushchev.

A statement from the Swiss party's Central Committee expressed regret about the methods used to oust Khrushchev.

"The circumstances suggest that the determined and incontestable progress made by Soviet society along the road to democracy has not yet gone far enough," the statement said.

COPENHAGEN, Denmark

(AP) — The Danish Communist party paper Land Og Folk published today letters from party members criticizing the Kremlin ouster of Nikita Khrushchev.

One letter charged Khrushchev had been "thrown on the dunghill without a word of thanks."

Publication of the letters coincided with the arrival in Moscow of Danish Communist leader Knud Jespersen and Villy Karlsson, the paper's chief editor, in search of an explanation.

The paper, published only three letters, but the fact that they were published at all indicates a heavy flow of protests from party members must have come to Land Og Folk.

PARIS (AP) — The French

National Committee of Communist Students called on the Soviet Communist party today to give full details on the ouster of Nikita Khrushchev.

The committee said "the official motive — resignation for health reasons — cannot be taken seriously."

Mrs. Renk Meets Fox Cities

Mrs. Wilbur Renk quite obviously likes people. But she does so in a quiet, unassuming, almost reticent manner. There is nothing of the professional campaigner in the wife of the Republican candidate for the U. S. Senate. She admits that a swing through the state meeting women voters is the last thing she'd be doing if her husband were not running for office.

In spite of the fact that home is the place she likes best, Helen Renk has come to enjoy her coffee hours throughout Wisconsin. It's tiring — there were 27 coffees last week — but she says she's found warmth and interest wherever she's gone.

Morning in Kaukauna

Mrs. Renk visited in the Fox Cities Saturday. She began her day with a morning coffee at the home of Mrs. Edward Schuette, 800 W. 10th St., Kaukauna. A noon brunch, arranged at the home of Mrs. Gordon Bubolz, 78 River Drive, was held up for a few minutes by an unscheduled visit to a dentist. Mrs. Renk apologized for the minor delay, and her smile brought reciprocal expressions from waiting guests.

Her life centers around her family, Mrs. Renk says. She'd be perfectly content to remain in Sun Prairie, in the home where her husband was born and where she went as a bride. It's a wonderful, peaceful life, she comments. She says her hobbies aren't too exciting. She reads voraciously. Knits. Loves to play bridge and is looking forward to learning duplicate. She's not a joiner, she says, but belongs to the Woman's Club in Sun Prairie, and the Civics Club in Madison.

Quite a Change

If her husband is elected, the move to Washington would mean quite an uprooting for the Renk family. She'd hate to leave her friends, the candidate's wife says, but she notes that the ledger is balanced by the exciting and fascinating place that is Washington.

Enjoying the lovely river scene from the Bubolz dining room, Mrs. Renk commented that she loved to look down on a view. She gets the same feeling from the second floor of her own home, she says.

Although she's never taken part in a political campaign before, Mrs. Renk says her sleep was undisturbed until she was scheduled to talk at the Madison Press Club. That appointment gave her some restless nights, but she managed to get through it.

Answers Questions

The coffees are quite informal. Mrs. Renk prefers to talk of her family, rather than of politics. She does give about a two-minute speech, just to get the ball rolling, and then she'll try to answer whatever questions are put forth.

Mrs. Renk usually drives herself about the state, especially if an overnight stop has been arranged. She's never told until Sunday what's ahead for the following week. "They probably think I'd pull out," she says with a wry smile.

The Renks' daughter Sue, Mrs. Richard Tomlin, came to Appleton with her mother Saturday. The Tomlins are living with the Renks while Mr. Tomlin, a chemical engineer, is studying law, aiming at becoming a patent attorney.

Learning to Walk

Obviously taken up with her grandchildren, Craig, 4, and Tia, almost 1, Mrs. Renk says that when she left home last Monday Tia was just beginning to stand and take a few hesitant steps. When she returned Thursday, the little girl was walking all over the house.

The Renks' son, Steven, 24, is married and works for the family's hybrid seed corn firm in Sun Prairie. His wife teaches Spanish at Sun Prairie High School.

After answering questions for the brunch guests, Mr. Renk hurried on to keep a date at the Meet the Candidates Day event at Valley Fair Shopping Center. As she stepped into the warm fall day, the sun glistened on the Renk buttons that formed a necklace on her bright green dress.

One had the feeling that it was jewelry she wore most proudly.

Mrs. Wilbur Renk, wife of the Republican candidate for the U. S. Senate, made three appearances in the Fox Cities Saturday. In the morning she was guest of honor at a coffee at the home of Mrs. Edward Schuette, 800 W. 10th St., Kaukauna. Shown there above, second from right, she talks with seated Miss Jean Schuette, and, standing, the Renks' daughter, Mrs. Richard Tomlin. Mrs. Schuette and Mrs. E. C. Tomashek, Kaukauna. At left, Mrs. Don Jury, Appleton. Miss Barbara Rohloff, Appleton, and Mrs. W. E. Lange, serve themselves at the noon brunch at the home of Mrs. Gordon Bubolz, 78 River Drive. Leg Ulcers Result of Varicose Veins Varicose veins are dilated, tortuous, venous blood vessels lying just under the skin. They occur most frequently on the inner side and back of the calf and on the inner side of the thigh.

The veins have lost their elasticity and their function of maintaining return flow of blood is impaired. This leads to impaired circulation and consequent decreased nutrition of tissues.

Varicose veins often are a hereditary characteristic. Pregnancy and prolonged standing contribute to the condition in pre-disposed individuals.

If varicose veins "run in the family," you probably will develop them despite any preventive measures. However, there are simple measures which can delay their occurrence and make them less bothersome once they have occurred.

If possible, choose an occupation that doesn't involve long hours of standing. Avoid clothing that might constrict the veins at the groin and knee and interfere with blood flow.

When sitting, minimize venous pressure in the legs by elevating them on a stool or chair. When you must stand for long periods, elastic stockings or elastic bandages may be worn — but only on the recommendation of a physician, since complications can develop in persons with additional circulatory conditions.

Varicose veins not only are a hindrance to health, they also are undesirable for cosmetic reasons. Early treatment will prevent complications such as dermatitis or ulcers of the leg. A physician will determine the most appropriate treatment, after considering the size and locations of the veins and the age and general health of the patient.

Apply Stain Sealer

BY ROGER C. WHITMAN

Q I would like to paint the shingles on my home. They were painted with a creosote mixture. Will it be necessary for me to treat them in some form before I apply ordinary house paint?

A: To avoid bleeding through the creosote, first apply a stain sealer, or a coat of exterior aluminum paint. Then the finish coat of the desired house paint. The stain sealer is available at paint dealers or some large hardware stores. Follow an unlined chimney, the liquid "Chimneys and Fireplaces," label instructions carefully. This is not 100 per cent brickwork and cause damp spots chimney linings passive lead of the nine of diamonds. A heart would have been better, as it turned out, but West couldn't tell.

No 'Fish' So Bait Is Failure Too

South could count on four diamonds, two hearts, one club and at least one spade. He correctly decided that his best chance was to try for two spade tricks. Instead of only one. With this in mind, South won the first diamond in his hand and led a spade to dummy's king.

West naturally played a low spade, and East played the six of spades so smoothly that South was completely taken in. South was convinced that West had the ace of spades.

Swallows Bait
South ran his diamonds and swallowed the bait by leading another spade to dummy's queen. East could now haul in his fish by taking three spade tricks. There were not enough to defeat the contract immediately, but South had no further play for his ninth trick and eventually went down one.

South's play to the second trick was correct, but when the king of spades won he missed a play that would give him an extra chance. He should immediately return a low spade from dummy toward his own ten.

This guarantees two spade tricks whenever East has the jack of spades. If West has the jack of spades, declarer can get a second spade trick if West has the ace of spades since he can later lead his low spade toward dummy's queen. Any play will work if the six missing spades break 3-3.

The correct play would be

DAILY QUESTION
As dealer, you hold: S K Q 4 2; H K 7 5; D K Q 4; C 9 7 4. What do you say?
Answer: Pass. You have only 13 points, so that an opening bid is optional rather than mandatory. You would be tempted to bid if you had an ace or two, or even if you had some tens and nines to give the hand some body. The actual hand is just a trifle too weak for an opening bid.

Time Chart Aids Personal Use of Hours

Are you one of those hapless, harried creatures who rushes around from one activity to another, never on time, never prepared for assignments? If you're habitually late, rushed and disorganized, it's time you did something about it. There is a way to crowd everything — homework as well as fun — into a single day. All it takes is organization.

The slickest way to budget your time and keep track of all the things you're supposed to do is by devising a personal time chart. You can make one by attaching seven large pieces of paper to your bulletin board, one piece for each day of the week, with each sheet marked off into working hours. Then, as assignments, dates, and activities come up, you merely write them down in the appropriate time slot.

Aid to Parents
You'll not only be better organized, but you'll avoid those endless "where were you?" discussions with your parents. What boy likes to be stood up? They need only glance at the bulletin board to learn where on the bowling date he planned, you are and with whom. It's a week ago? When you organize a great way to preserve your time, you have so much hard - earned sense of independence.

Lab Tests Devised to Confirm German Measles

CHICAGO — Laboratory tests devised which can determine whether a woman exposed to German measles during pregnancy actually contracted the infection. The laboratory techniques were made possible by isolation of the virus which causes German measles in 1962.

Confirmation of German measles is of particular importance to an expectant mother because the disease, if contracted in the early stages of pregnancy, can cause mental retardation or other defects in the offspring. Rash had to identify diagnosis of German measles is frequently difficult. It occurs in mind and atypical forms, and the rash which accompanies other virus infections can be indistinguishable from that of German measles.

Confirmation or denial of the disease in the expectant mother can determine whether therapy and ease your parents' worries at the same time.

When you budget your time, you'll be able to really relax and meet a friend for a leisurely soda - sipping session without worrying about the math assignment you should have done the day before. And your relationships with friends will improve, too. What girl friend likes to be kept waiting for an after-school study session because

Your Problems

Undressing in Closet Debate Elicits Readers' Responses

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: The wife who undresses in the closet to escape her husband lecherous eye and signed herself "Just Tired" is more than "Just Tired." She is also "Plenty Stupid."

The average American housewife and mother leads a fairly busy life, depending on the size of her family, the quality of her housekeeping, and whether or not she has help. But when the end of the day finds the woman hiding in the closet for fear her husband may get ideas, it is more than a matter of "needing her rest." It means the wife has a lopsided scale of values and her husband is at the bottom of the scale.

Cooks and housekeepers are for hire, but certain wifely activities should not be delegated. Some women learn this too late. Others, not at all. — Old Codger

Dear Codger: Thanks for a sensible letter. Here's an assist from a female reader who wishes she had the problem:

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Certain wives are luckier than others. For example, the wife whose husband is so amorous she must undress in the closet. What I wouldn't give to see a gleam in my husband's eye, any hour of the day or night. For years I've been trying to live up our marriage but he is "Just Tired," or should I be realistic and say he is "Just Not Interested." — Batting Zero

Dear Zero: Unhappily, your husband isn't the only one.

Read on.
DEAR ANN LANDERS: Please do not publish any more letters like the one which appeared in the Asheville Times recently. Ever since my wife read it she has been undressing in the living room. I'm the one who is — Just Tired

Dear Tired: Here's more: DEAR ANN: If Mrs. J. T. would stay in the closet during the day, as well as at bedtime, she could avoid cooking, shopping, cleaning and laundry — and her husband as well. Why be only half a wife? With a little ingenuity she could get out of the whole business. — Mac

Dear Mac: The next letter sounds like a buddy of yours. I sense collusion.

Dear Ann: If that dizzy dame has been undressing in the closet for 21 years it is no wonder her husband "suddenly springs to life" when he sees her remove a stocking. I'll bet by this time the poor guy lights up like Chinese New Years when she takes off her hat. — Sympathetic

And now Dear Readers: Let that an illness was caused by another agent; to confirm the disease when symptoms were not typical; to attempt confirmation of recent infection when the patient was not seen by a physician during the rash; to determine whether an infection occurred after exposure to the disease or had suffered ease when no symptoms bell illnesses similar to German measles during pregnancy. The 24 a more precise diagnosis of cases were drawn from numerous women exposed during the epidemic which occurred in the eastern United States during the past winter and spring.

Tests Confirm Disease
The cases demonstrated that the laboratory tests could be used to confirm the disease in sample, two weeks later, according to exclude the possibility of the report.

as close the closet door on this issue—once and for all. I am far more accustomed to finding skeletons in closets than tired wives.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Six years ago when I was in high school I worked on the refreshment stand crew at the football games. During half time we were so rushed that we just stuck the money into any handy pocket. After the game we turned the cash over to the teacher in charge.

I hit on the idea of "accidentally on purpose" forgetting to turn over the money in my back pocket. I never kept track but I guess I must have kept between $25 and $30.

This has been on my mind ever since I got out of school, and it bugs me worse as time goes by.

I'd like to go to a bank and find out what the interest rate on $30 would be for six years. Also, I'd like to figure out the jail sentence or fine if I had been caught. I would then like to send the money to school with a letter of apology.

Please tell me if you think this is wise.—Bad Past

Dear Past: I admire you for wanting to do the right thing —late though it is.

Send a money order for $30 along with a note of explanation. And if you sign the note you'll feel better.

If excessive drinking is wrecking your health or destroying someone you love, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Help For the Alcoholic," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self - addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope. (Copyright 1964)

'Blondie' Shares Favorite Dagwoodburger Recipe

Penny Singleton is no longer ago. Penny was preparing a specialty that is still one of her favorite kitchen exercises. 25 years ago in the adventures "Dagwoodburger."

In the production, Penny plays a woman who, though brushing 50, discovers with amazement, joy and hilarious complications that she is going to have another baby—a good twenty years after she'd given the matter any thought, proving its 'never too late.'

In the photo taken 25 years ago, Penny Singleton volunteered another recipe for a dish to accompany "Dagwood - burgers" which can be prepared in advance except for the last steps.

For eight burgers use:
 1/2 cup breadcrumbs moistened with milk
 Salt and pepper to taste.
 1/4 cup chopped stuffed olives.
 An unsliced block of Swiss or American cheese.
 And the secret ingredient — 1/2 cup of apple sauce.

Mix all the ingredients together, except the cheese, and form a loaf. Wrap tightly and refrigerate for future use. When ready to use, cut slices of meat for each burger from this 'Cucumbers a la Never Too Late'.

When ready to use, pour off the liquid, place the cucumbers in a bowl and toss with 1/2 cup of sour cream, 1/4 tsp dry mustard, freshly ground pepper, arate or freeze for future use. Vaccine Makes Some Diseases Conquerable

BY JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D. bodies when exposed to the par-
What is vaccine? ticular disease-causing organism.
Readers who happen to know the answer are hereby excused from today's class, but those who don't know will be better off if they have a really clear idea of the subject.
The first vaccine was discovered by accident. Smallpox used to be, and still is, unless we maintain constant vigilance a very dangerous disease. In the past, a local epidemic could and did cause hundreds of deaths.
But in those days if a person recovered from the disease, it was found that he usually was immune to another attack.
Why? Nobody knew.
Slowly doctors began to notice that milkmaids, and others who handled cattle very often did not get smallpox. At length it was noticed that the persons who were safe had been in contact with a sick cow — one with cowpox.
"Cowpox Party"
In time, it became popular to have parties at which people petted cows that had cowpox. This did indeed protect many of them from smallpox. But many years passed before anyone knew why.
Here is the explanation: Our virus may be raised in a laboratory and then killed. This is caused by viruses or sometimes other particles. The killed or inactive virus cannot give anyone polio, but it still can make the blood build up antibodies.

And that, in a nutshell, is how a vaccine works. It makes the body (the blood, that is) accumulate a supply of tiny protein particles which will fight their particular disease germ whenever it appears.
How long does a vaccination last? That's something to discuss Tuesday.
Dear Dr. Molner: Would varicose veins in the ankles and feet have anything to do with becoming bald? It does not seem to be hereditary as my father is 69 and has a good head of hair. I am 28.—L. B.
Varicose veins have nothing to do with baldness. Heredity is a powerful factor in baldness. But "what about your mother's side?" She may be passing on a trait

Ghastly, Bloody War Terror, Counter-Terror Rampant in Viet Nam

BY MALCOLM W. BROWNE Mekong River delta town of Cau SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Terror and counter-terror, persistent themes of Vietnamese political and military history for many centuries, continue to play a dominant role in the increasingly bloody war raging now.
Terror is used for interrogation, as propaganda, as punishment and as revenge. Neither the Viet Cong nor Saigon government forces have any monopoly on its use.
Terror strikes in many forms. A month ago, it came to a battalion of Vietnamese Rangers caught in an ambush near the
A Viet Cong unit concealed in a Buddhist pagoda opened fire on the government unit, killing 10 Rangers, including an American sergeant advising them.
A few days ago the same Ranger unit was back for an operation at the same place, spoiling for revenge.
The pagoda was deserted but three likely looking suspects, all of them Vietnamese of Cambodian extraction, happened to be in the area. The Rangers picked them up.
Their arms tied behind their backs, the three men were given the "water treatment". A cloth is placed over the face of the prisoner and water is poured over the cloth, tending to suffocate the man. Just before he loses consciousness, he is released. This is repeated until he talks.
As an innovation on this operation, one of the prisoners was lowered head first into a water-pot with his hands bound.
Survival Chances Slim
In the mouth of one of the prisoners, Rangers found a little bag containing several human teeth carved with Buddhist symbols. Under questioning, the man said the teeth had belonged to his grandmother, and were supposed to protect him from death.
Another prisoner was rounded up and eight old villagers sitting on a log watched quietly while the four young men were tortured. Later, the prisoners were taken to the operation command post by helicopter for further questioning. They were lucky.
Chances of surviving field interrogation are often extremely poor. Death can come for prisoners under the tracks of armored vehicles, by decapitation or by bleeding to death after both hands have been chopped off, or by a bullet through the head.
It is all part of the war in South Viet Nam.

NEENAH — Twenty-three persons were injured, two seriously, when an auto collided with a hay wagon being used for a hayride on State 150 east of here in Town of Vinland at 10:12 p.m. Sunday.

Pamela Kraft, 19, whom Winnebago County police said lives at 310 N. Durkee St., Appleton, and Carolyn Gerondale, 23, 600 Jackson St., Little Chute, were reported in serious condition Sunday night at Theda Clark Memorial Hospital.

Both were listed as satisfactory today but remained in intensive care wards. The hospital said extent of their injuries has not been determined.

The accident occurred when the hay wagon, carrying 21 persons, was hit in the rear by an auto driven by Tim Steller, 17, 9717 Hillcrest Drive, Oshkosh.

Steller told Winnebago police he did not see the slow-moving wagon in time to avoid the collision. Dist. Atty. Jack Steinhilber said today the hay wagon was marked with a lantern. He said the driver of the tractor pulling the wagon, Ronald Obermaier, 29, 4010 W. Capitol Drive, Appleton, said a red light on the tractor also was visible from the rear.

Steinhilber had brought no charges this morning. The 21 persons on the wagon were thrown off by the impact, which knocked the wagon's box from its axles. Steller was alone in the car at the time of the accident. Both he and Obermaier were injured and committed to Theda Clark.

Peace Corps Talks Planned

Woman Back From Service in Liberia To Appear Tuesday

A young woman just returned from two years of Peace Corps work in Liberia will be on the Lawrence University campus Tuesday to discuss the corps with students and adults.

She is Mrs. Suelen Haney McAndrews, who married a fellow Peace Corps worker.

During the course of her stay in Liberia, both have now come back for assignment in Washington, D.C., with the Office of Public Affairs.

Mrs. McAndrews will be in Memorial Union throughout the day, and will speak at a 7:30 p.m. meeting in the terrace room. A movie, "Mission of Discovery," will be shown.

The elementary school in which Mr. and Mrs. Robert McAndrews taught consisted of 150 students aged approximately 6 to 23. Peace Corps volunteers are freeing Liberian teachers to continue their education, for many had not gone beyond eighth grade.

Liberians learn English in the first grade, and since there are so many tribal languages, only in English can a Northern Liberian converse with a Western one, or an Easterner with a Southerner. Liberia was colonized in 1822 by freed American slaves, so English has been spoken in the cities for a long time.

The McAndrews quickly adapted to Liberian culinary habits, which depends on rice cooked with palm oil, chopped potatoes, greens, hot peppers and such exotic fruits as pineapples, mangoes, bananas, oranges and papayas. Trips to the capital, Monrovia, provided opportunities to stock up on canned goods.

All tickets are reserved, but can be obtained free from Outagamie County Democratic Appleton headquarters or from members of Lawrence's Young Democrats organization.

Outagamie Budget Hits $4.5 Million

Requests for Funds Still Coming In

A $4,516,001 budget for 1965, which if adopted unchanged would be $27,386 less than last year, has been proposed for Outagamie County.

The county executive committee authorized advertising the proposed spending plan after completing a week-long review of departmental requests.

Though the original budget draft now stands at less than last year's total, several significant appropriation requests are missing from it.

Of the budget's total proposed expenditures, $1,881,129 would be raised by taxes against real and personal property. This is approximately $9,000 more than last year's levy. Providing the balance would be revenues totaling $2,634,872 from sources other than local taxes.

The budget in effect for the current year amounted to $4,543,587 of which $2,670,637 was provided by outside revenues.

Board Chairman Alvin Fulcer said highway costs are down and welfare costs have been increased in the new budget. Other costs are about the same.

Budget hearings before county board supervisors will begin Nov. 9 and supervisors are expected to hear appeals for county funds from the public property and building committee to finance an extensive courthouse remodeling project, a request for wage increases, a building for the Civil Air Patrol at the new county airport, a request for library funding and funds for a courthouse service center.

Fulcer said the committee which reviewed the budget has deleted requests for a lie detector system in the sheriff's department and a radar machine for the traffic department. Cost of both machines is under $2,000.

Fulcer said that the departments must present separate resolutions calling for the funds to be replaced in the 1965 budget.

Guess-the-Word Game Is A Make-Yourself Project

BY CAPPY DICK

Today's fun-project for boys and girls is a make-it-yourself game called "Guess the Word". Prepare the game before your friends come over to play. Here's what to do:

With pencil or crayon, print the letters of one word on a 50 piece of paper. An example is shown in Figure 1 where the letter that is still covered up. In the case shown in Figure 3, he would win 30 points and a new game must be started with another word.

If he guesses incorrectly, he will be charged with 30 points. Thus his score would be minus 30 points.

If the player prefers not to try to guess the word he scores nothing.

The next player exposes another letter by removing the square or construction paper that covers it. He has two letters to guide his judgment and he knows to try to guess the complete word and succeeds, he wins 25 points. Failing to guess correctly he would be charged with 25 points.

If the word still hasn't been guessed the next player uncovers another letter, and so on.

Hide each letter from the players by covering it with a square of construction paper as in Figure 2. The game is then ready.

Remove One Square

The first player begins by removing one square, exposing the letter beneath it. In Figure 3 the letter that has been revealed is "T". If the player can guess what the complete word is, he will win five points for every let-

Minnesota Has Last Laugh

Vikings Down 49ers Despite Wrong-Way Run by Jim Marshall

BY DEREK SCHOEN

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A five-year pro veteran from The Minnesota Vikings can console themselves today with the old adage that he who laughs last laughs best.

That's because the Vikings emerged the victors by a 27-22 count Sunday over the San Francisco 49ers despite a wrong-way run that had the crowd of 31,845 in stitches.

It all started in the tense fourth period, with the Vikings leading 27-17.

San Francisco quarterback George Mira rifled a pass to a halfback Billy Kilmer for an apparent first down on the 49er 40-yard line. Then the fun started.

But Marshall's miscue couldn't compare with the barrage of errors that spelled de-

Jim Marshall (70), Minnesota Viking defensive end, scoops up a San Francisco fumble, left, and starts on a 60-yard wrong-way run into his own end zone in the fourth quarter Sunday at San Francisco. It gave the 49ers two points on a safety. At center, Marshall looks feat for San Francisco. Despite outgaining the Vikings 396 yards to 215 over-all, the 49ers had five passes intercepted and made three fumbles.

Defensive end Carl Eller gave Minnesota the winning points when he loped 45 yards after picking up a Mira fumble.

Moments before, the Vikings had gained the lead for the first time when Fran Tarkenton catching 14 catches for 41 scampers eight yards to score.

Brodie Scores

John Brodie, who suffered four interceptions, scored the game's first touchdown for San Francisco from two yards out.

A 41-yard field goal by Fred Cox cut the margin to 7-3, but Brodie then connected with Dave Parks on a team record-equaling 80-yard pass play.

After the Vikings scored their first touchdown, with Tommy Mason running it across from the seven, Tommy Davis booted a 37-yard field goal giving San Francisco a 17-10 halftime edge.

Rams Overcome 17-0 Deficit to Beat Bays

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 6 Jim Taylor set the ball down on the Ram 14. Hornung raced 12 yards in two trips to the two Bruce Gossett, a rookie kicker, booted 37 and 43-yard field goals in the fourth period.

Only 10 Points
The Packers were "down there" five times in the game and came out with 10 points. On the other three occasions, the ball was lost by fumble on the Ram 1-yard line. Hornung missed a field goal from the 21 and then from the 36.

The Packer defense recovered three Ram fumbles by Ron Kostelnik, Herb Adderley, Ray Nitschke and intercepted two passes (by Adderley and Wood) in the first half but only a fumble recovery by Nitschke was converted into points — Hornung's field goal. The lone TD drive went 47 yards in 11 plays.

Ironically, Hornung, who missed four field goals and had one blocked in Baltimore, missed one and had one blocked by the Rams. The Rams added in the suit to injury when Smith made his return.

After the Packers' three-first down drives to set up the ill-fated TD-field goal, the Bays could get but three first downs the rest of the game.

Gain 173 Yards
The Packers' play showed up in the statistics. They finished with 173 yards for the day, while the Rams had 281. The Bays settled for 60 yards passing, with Bart Starr hitting for 12 of 23 but lost 51 when he was thrown six times attempting to pass. The Bays made only 71 yards in the second half.

Oddly enough, the Packers had the ball for 63 plays against the Rams' 51, but the visitors averaged 5.6 yards per play against the Pack's 2.8.

The Augustana rookie, Josephson, led both teams in rushing (10 for 90 yards) and in pass time when Fran Tarkenton catching 14 catches for 41 yards. Pope, with his one catch, now has 12 receptions, with six going for TDs — not to mention a 32-yard average per catch.

The Packers made a quick bid when Adderley intercepted a Gabriel pass on the third play of the game and romped back 35 yards to the Ram 28. Starr threw to Boyd Dowler for 14. Hornung ran 11 but two plays later Starr fumbled and Dave Jones recovered on the 2-yard line.

Ron Kostelnik tackled Gabriel for a 12-yard loss to get the Pack's lone TD drive going — from the Ram 47, after Jerry Norton's 45-yard punt.

Starr's 12-yard pass to Dowler and a 17-yard rollout pass to

Washington Defeats Bears, 27-20, Despite Bill Wade's Great Day

Chicago QB Hits On 33 of 57 Aerials For 321 Yards, 3 TDs

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Washington Redskins stormed into the second quarter on a 21-yard pass from Wade to Charlie Bigham, but missed the extra point 80 yards in the final three minutes Sunday to pull out a 27-20 victory over the Chicago Bears.

Billy Wade unleashed a torrent of passes for the defending champions, scoring on a 59-yard drive to the end zone.

The Bears tied the score quickly after halftime. They marched 73 yards after the kickoff, scoring on Wade's three-yard pass to Johnny Morris.

A poor punt put the Redskins in business on the Bears 29. Mitchell moved the ball to the 11 on a double reverse. Two plays later, Jurgensen hit Coia for a touchdown on a nine-yard toss. This gave Washington a 20-13 lead.

But Wade moved the Bears back down field with his passes. The key play in a 73-yard National League champions, and pulled them into a 20-20 tie on two plays in the closing minutes.

In all, Wade connected on 33 of 57 passes for 321 yards and three touchdowns. The NFL record for passing attempts is 60, for completions 36.

But then Sonny Jurgensen took charge and moved Washington back into the lead with an 89-yard drive in 10 plays. The clincher came on a 15-yard scoring pass to end Preston Carpenter.

Jurgensen had 16 completions in 31 attempts for 205 yards and four touchdowns.

Neither team could move on the ground with any consistency.

Vince Holds Private Parley With Players

drained them emotionally — I can't tell you anything else." He flashed a tight-lipped smile and added sardonically, "At least we didn't lose this by one or three points (the Packers' first three losses had been inflicted by a total of five points) We lost this one."

Asked if any personnel changes were contemplated, Lombardi replied, "I don't know. I'll have to wait (presumably until after viewing the game film.)"

Why had Starr been replaced at quarterback by Zeke Bratkowski? "I took him out to give him a rest. He'd been taking quite a beating in there." Tom Moore and Elijah Pitts had supplanted Hornung and Jim Taylor in the final period with the intent of exploiting "passes going wide," Lombardi also explained.

Re-evaluating what had transpired, he declared, "This is still a game of emotions. If you are not ready to play that way, you aren't ready. Every team has days like that. Unfortunately, ours came today. It's the first bad game we've played — we've played good football up until now. But this was a flat game today." The Rams' long gainers (three lengthy scoring strikes) symbolized the "flatness," he agreed.

'Our History'

Did he feel the Packers should have had more than 17 points? "That's been our history all year," Lombardi said. "We haven't been able to do anything once we get inside the 30 or 40."

"We should have had..." Again facing up to the cold reality of defeat, he paused, grinned sardonically and rapped, "What the hell difference does it make what we should have had?"

Labeling himself "ecstatic," the Rams' jubilant young headmaster, Harland (Svare) termed the Angelinos' triumph "easily the biggest victory I've personally had since 1956 when I was player with the Giants (under Lombardi) and won the championship. I'm ecstatic about it."

The heady success also had apparently established Los Angeles as a Western Division contender, somebody ventured. "Well, we're tied for second place — I guess we're contenders," Svare smiled. "And we intend to make a big whack at it."

The ex-linebacker called "the blocked field goal — I believe Meador deflected it — and Bob by Smith's runback (for a TD) the turning point. Smith has been making a lot of yards for us. He ran back an interception 97 yards for a score against San Francisco last week and today he went 94. That's a pretty fair average."

Svare evinced no surprise at rock fryers 18½-19.

rookie Bucky Pope's TD catch just before the half. "Bucky caught two of 'em like that last week," he said, somewhat matter-of-factly. He had high praise for another freshman, halfback Les Josephson, a former St. Norbert College adversary. Asked how he had been acquired, Svare explained, "We got Josephson from Dallas for Jim Boeke, a tackle. We were in dire need of a running back. But we didn't have a chance to try him out until last week."

"He's a find," Svare beamed. "He's from a small school — Augustana — but he's a tough little apple." (Josephson, helped from the field in the fourth quarter after a thunderous collision with the Packers' Dan Currie, "just got knocked out for a while," the Ram mentor revealed.)

Commenting on still another rookie, Svare said, "Gossett (Bruce) judged the wind perfectly on those two field goals — the ball drifted right between the goal posts. I was kind of worried about the wind on both of them, but they were perfect."

Had he felt his team might collapse after falling behind, 17-0, in the second quarter? "No, our boys haven't been guilty of giving up yet," the former Giant coaching aide said. "The rush on Starr," he noted in reply to another question, "was fantastic. It was the best rush they've ever had on that quality of team."

How did he explain the Rams' lack of first half success? "We just were higher than a kite," Svare said. "We were very nervous the first half — probably the result of our youth and our desire — but we relaxed when we scored those two quick ones."

Units hit Lorick again in the third quarter, this time on a 33-yard play, to move the Colts from their 29 to the Detroit 48. After the drive stalled, Michaels kicked his first field goal. Logan scored 32 seconds after Michaels kicked his second field goal.

The shutout was the second scored by the Colts this season. The first was a 52-0 trouncing of the Chicago Bears. It marked the first time the Lions had been blanked since the last game of the 1962 season when the Bears edged them 3-0.

Tennessee '11' Deadlocks LSU Tigers

Underdog Vols Gain 3-3 Tie in Defensive Battle

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — Underdog Tennessee threw up a ferocious defense and Louisiana State — seventh ranked collegiate football team in the nation — had to go all out to salvage a 3-3 deadlock with the Vols in a rugged Southeastern Conference game Saturday.

LSU's defense was equally as fierce. The Tigers held the Tennessee offense to minus yardage after intermission. Jarry tackles by both teams kept the ball flying through the air as backs fumbled. Bobbles set up the field goals for both LSU and Tennessee.

Tennessee got a 3-0 lead on Fred Martin's 28-yard field goal and it stood up until three seconds before the halftime break with left footer kicker Doug Moreau booting one from the 21 for the Tigers. But Moreau's kicking was off in the second half and he missed three of them. His final try came with eight seconds left in the game after Tennessee had been penalized 15 yards for not letting Moreau get up after he was tackled.

Biggest Hoax Exposed

The present governor of Wisconsin is spending countless thousands of dollars on Television and Radio, telling Wisconsin Citizens how he saved them from taxation.

Let's Take A Look At The Record

The State budget for Wisconsin during the term of the last Republican Governor was $332,509,000.00.

The State budget under the present Democrat Governor was $728,800,000.00.

The present Governor is spending more than TWICE as much money, your money, as did the last Republican Governor.

We ask YOU to do this — Take a look at your real estate tax bill — Has it decreased? Take a look at your State Income tax bill — Has it decreased?

WHERE HAS HE SAVED YOU ANY TAXES ? ? ?

Can he take LESS TAX from you and still spend TWICE as much of your money? THE FACT IS more than twice as much money is being spent — IT CAME FROM YOU.

REMEMBER THIS: The TAX LAW on the books in Wisconsin today was SIGNED INTO LAW BY THE PRESENT GOVERNOR.

REMEMBER THIS ALSO: It was the present governor who attempted to put another 1c SALES TAX on gasoline in Wisconsin. YOU VOTERS BEAT this plan of his by a 7 to 1 vote in Wisconsin this year.

REMEMBER THIS ALSO: It was the present governor who DOUBLED the State Income Tax in the lowest bracket.

As to his fighting for the COMMON MAN—who needs enemies when he has friends like this?

HE HAS DONE THIS: With the help of his predecessor Democrat Governor:

Wisconsin now has the HIGHEST BURDEN OF TAXES IN THE NATION.

Wisconsin ranks NUMBER ONE in taxes. Is it any wonder that Industry, along with its jobs are leaving Wisconsin Daily?

REMEMBER THIS ALSO: It was a REPUBLICAN Legislature who voted Real Estate tax relief for our citizens over 65, so they could afford to live in their own homes.

Let's get back to RESPONSIBLE Government—Let's get back to Government which will respect your tax dollars. Let's get back to Government which will make Wisconsin a place for industry and Jobs.

Let's VOTE REPUBLICAN for Honesty, Integrity and Responsible Government

Southern Rhodesia's African Leaders Are Favoring Independence

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) — Southern Rhodesian African chiefs announced today they favor independence from Brit- ain under white rule.

The decision was given by a senior chief to Interior Minister William Harper during the final session of the independence gathering attended by 622 chiefs and headmen at Domboshawa, 20 miles from Salisbury.

The senior chief said he was speaking for all his colleagues.

The chiefs' meeting was Prime Minister Ian Smith's uoal referendum Nov 5 by the method of ascertaining African largely white electorate will mass opinion. The British gov- ernment had told him the favor of independence while the White minority still has control economy's job-producing achievement has been down- graded because the wrong basis of comparison is used.

(The government estimate of employment, unemployment, and the rate of joblessness in the labor force is based on a monthly survey of 35,000 house- holds by the Department of Labor. The labor force thus estimated is a projection of the sum of those with jobs and those who say they want jobs. It varies widely from month to month as people decide they do or don't want work.

The bank economists hold that other data collected by the de- partment is more accurate and a much better indicator of short-run employment develop- ments. This is the payroll em- ployment reported each month by employers.

Rising Faster

Using the actual payrolls, the economists find that employ- ment has been rising faster and higher than the other — or total employment — data indicates. And in relation to the population growth in the working ages, the increase in jobs has been marked.

So far this year payroll em- ployment has increased at an annual rate of about 3.1 per cent. The 20 to 64 age group has been increasing at a 1.2 per cent clip, and the 18 to 64 group at 1.4 per cent.

The economy thus has been creating jobs faster than the labor force has been growing partial support for Pastor Dret- ke, who is a native of the Sym- are the help-wanted ads in many newspapers across the country. Most are showing gains this fall, and the volume is well above the year-ago lineage.

Both the total employment and the payroll employment data of the Labor Department have shown goods gains since the economy started upward early in 1961.

Annual Rise

But the bank points out that the commonly used total em- ployment figure has risen dur- ing 3 1/2 years at an annual rate of 1.7 per cent.

This has kept the unemploy- ment percentage of the labor force disturbingly high.

The payroll employment data, however, shows a 2.9 per cent annual gain. And since the first of the year the increase has averaged 3.1 per cent. This gives the economy far better marks for creating jobs, despite automation, ends obsolescence, and the school drop-out prob- lem.

For those out of work, the statistical difference will be dubbed one of the most serious small comfort. But for aprais- shortcomings of an otherwise the U.S. economy's potential largely prosperous economy. it affords hope of still better The bank contends that the days to come.

The 1965 Ford rides quieter than a Rolls-Royce!

Prior to the introduction of the 1965 Fords, the country's leading automotive writers drove the new models at Dearborn. Most of these experts remarked about the extraordinary quietness and smoothness of the Ford ride. An automotive writer, in Mechanix Illustrated, said, "If there is a quieter car made in this country, I haven't driven it."

Quiet Means Quality... Since quiet is a traditional measure of car quality, Ford engineers designed the '65 Ford for maximum quietness. To illustrate this quality achievement, Ford chose to make a documented test against the world's finest luxury car—Rolls-Royce.

Bolt, Beranek and Newman, Inc., world's leading acoustic consultants to government and industry, conducted the tests under supervision of the authoritative United States Auto Club. All cars were tuned to factory specifications.

The Result... The Fords proved to be slightly quieter at all speeds.

The official test report reads, in part: "At all moving speeds, on both courses, the Fords were quieter than the Rolls-Royces."

The Difference... The sound level difference, to be sure, is small—but it is there. At 60 miles an hour, Ford was actually 2.8 decibels* quieter than Rolls-Royce. At 40, Ford was 5.5 decibels* quieter. At 20, Ford was 4.9 decibels* quieter. However small these advantages over Rolls-Royce may be, they are significant evidence of quality—important to anyone buying a car in Ford's class.

Take A Test Drive... A key—and a warm welcome—await you at your Ford Dealer's. The key, incidentally, fits in the lock no matter which side is up—symbolic of the hundreds of advances you'll find in any Ford you road-test. Come in and see for yourself.

Squadron of B52 Bombers Sent to Guam

Each Jet Carries Two of Heaviest Nuclear Weapons

BY FRED S. ROFFMAN

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has posted a squadron of 15 B52 heavy jet nuclear bombers on the island of Guam — within about 1,000 miles of Red China, it was learned today.

The unpublicized move, made last spring, places the 15 B52s about 5,000 miles closer to Communist China than when they were based in the United States.

The squadron sent to Guam replaces a unit of older medium jet B47 bombers. B52s have at least twice the striking range and carry much more of an atomic wallop than the B47s. The B52s also fly faster and higher.

Runway Alert

This is the first time that the long-range B52s have been deployed overseas. The other 600 heavy jets are stationed in the United States, half of them on "runway alert" and ready for takeoff within 15 minutes.

No additional B52s are scheduled for overseas deployment this year, the Air Force said.

Asked the reason for sending the 15 B52s to Guam, the Air Force said the purpose is "to more effectively utilize the aircraft."

The type of B52 stationed on Guam has an effective operating range of more than 6,000 miles with the fuel it carries in its own tanks.

Refueled by aerial tankers, the eight-jet B52s can extend their ranges by thousands of miles.

Nuclear Weapon

Each B52 can carry a brace of the heaviest nuclear weapons in the U.S. arsenal — weapons packing explosive equivalents of 24 million tons of TNT.

Furthermore, B52s are fitted to launch Hound Dog missiles. These nuclear-headed missiles can blast ground targets more than 500 miles from their mother bombers.

To confuse enemy defenses, B52s can fire off decoy missiles called Quail. The 13-foot-long Quail flies at B52 speeds and altitudes, producing a "blip" on enemy radar similar to that made by an actual B52.

The Air Force gradually has been retiring its aging B47s. A one-time fleet of about 1,400 of the six-jet craft has been reduced to about 400 planes.

Soldiers Guard Hillside Grave Near Birthplace

WEST BRANCH, Iowa (AP) — Two soldiers stood guard today on a cedar-shrouded hillside where Herbert Clark Hoover, 31st president of the United States, was buried Sunday after a brief, solemn ceremony.

Thousands walked slowly past the grave after the service, which was attended by Hoover's family, his friends and colleagues.

An estimated 75,000 persons stood in the distance, behind farm fences and cordons of soldiers, as a leading Quaker, Dr. Elton Trueblood, conducted the final rites.

"This is not a time for tears," said Dr. Trueblood, a friend of Hoover. His words echoed from loudspeakers down the grassy valley to the two-room house where Hoover was born 90 years ago.

Hoover Story

"The story (of Hoover) is a great one and it is a good one," he said.

"It is essentially a story that is triumphant... and our mood today should be rejoicing."

As shadows from the tall, thin cedars fell across the knoll, Hoover's coffin was lowered into a concrete vault in a 10-foot by 10-foot crypt. The lid placed on the vault said simply "Her-

9 U.S. Marines Die in Copter Crash in Spain

HUELVA, Spain (AP) — Nine U.S. Marines died today in the blazing wreckage of two helicopters which collided and crashed while participating in massive U.S. Spanish amphibious maneuvers near here.

The helicopters, with scores of similar craft from the invasion fleet off shore, were preparing to land in the drop area along a rocky escarpment when they collided at an altitude of about 300 feet.

Both caught fire and were burning furiously when they hit the rocky hill. Twelve Marines aboard the two machines man- aged to make their way out of the flames and a 13th was rescueled badly injured. Chief Contenders are State Minister Ichiro Kono; Eisaku Sato, brother of former prime Minister Nobusuke Kishi, and

Gordon Walker, who told newsmen on his arrival Sunday that he came with an open mind and no new proposals, meets today with Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon.

He is scheduled to meet Tuesday with President Johnson. The meetings are the first between Washington officials and a leading spokesman for the Labor government which won the British elections Oct. 15.

A newsmen asked Gordon Walker about the British position on admitting Red China to the United Nations, and he replied tersely that the position is unchanged. The Labor government is on record as favoring Peking's admittance to the world organization.

Would the U.S.-proposed multilateral force be an answer to the current troubles of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization alliance?

"Some say so," replied the foreign secretary. "We have our own views about that."

Auto Strike Ended; GM Still Hobbled

Trouble at Local Levels Threaten Return to Work

DETROIT (AP) — Despite ending of a 31-day national walkout against General Motors Corp., the giant of the automaking industry was hobbled today by local-level strikes that threaten to snuff out new operations.

The question of when the company that normally turns out more than half the nation's new automobiles might get any assembly lines going again was unanswered. One company source guessed: "Within a couple of days, maybe."

The United Auto Workers union announced Sunday night that 95 of 97 local unions reporting had given "overwhelming ratification" to a new three-year national contract.

The UAW announced that the national strike was "terminated," but, at the same time, said the 28 local units which had not reached at-the-plant working agreements which supplement the national contract would stay out.

At the time 192 of the UAW's 130 units in GM's empire had reached local-level settlement.

With announcement of the national strike's ending, GM called back maintenance and make-ready crews in the Pontiac Division at Pontiac, Mich., through St. Lawrence and the Buick Division at Flint, Mich., and the Buick-Oldsmobile-Pontiac plant in Kansas City, Kan.

Power Struggle Among Top Bureaucrats Is Anticipated

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has been advised by government experts on Soviet affairs that the ouster of Premier Khrushchev has damaged the prestige of Soviet leadership at home and abroad and tendered uncertain the future course of Soviet policy toward the West.

These are among the principal conclusions reached in a new study of the sudden, sensational shakeup in the Kremlin earlier this month. Other conclusions reported to the President, according to informed officials.

Future Prospects

1. The best guess about the future prospects for Khrushchev's successor is that a power struggle probably cannot be avoided. The experts say that Communist party boss Leonid I. Brezhnev and Premier Alexei N. Kosygin appear to represent the two bureaucracies of the party and the government and these together with the competitive interests of the military and industrial establishment set the stage for a power struggle.

2. Factionalism in the Soviet Union tends to hurt Soviet international relations. The experts say that Communist party boss Leonid I. Brezhnev and Premier Alexei N. Kosygin appear to represent the two bureaucracies of the party and the government and these together with the competitive interests of the military and industrial establishment set the stage for a power struggle.

3. The violent wrench which resulted from the sudden ouster of Khrushchev has displayed to the world what experts here term the uglier side of Kremlin politics and this has been a principal contribution to the loss of Soviet prestige. It renders virtually all important aspects of Soviet policy uncertain.

4. While Brezhnev and Kosygin have reaffirmed Khrushchev's policy of coexistence, the new men and their jockeying for power will continue to wield great power as commander in chief of the armed forces, with a big say in naming the armed forces minister. They will sit on the four-man National Security Council which will have wide power because of the war against the Communist Vietnam. Although the U.S. Embassy hailed the shift as "another positive step toward the objective of establishing an effective civilian government," more turmoil was possible.

Suu said he would continue as chief of state for only a short time because his health isn't good. It appeared likely that the civilian politicians would not bow to military pressure willingly. Any such defiance would probably result in another military coup.

Political Leaders

Lawrence Concert Goers Will Have To 'Rough It' at Opener Nov. 2

$400,000 Chapel Remodeling Job Incomplete; Symphony to Appear

BY MARGUERITE SCHUMANN
Of Lawrence University
Concert goers will have to be a bit of a shock. The stage area will be "raw," with painting and decorating still to follow on Nov. 2 with the Israel Youth Symphony.

The $400,000 remodeling of clearly visible in the parquetry Memorial Chapel, going on since June, is not quite finished. And since it was applied long before the bringing a camp stool, for the seats organ pipes were installed, there are safely in some of the most recent remodeling.

esthetics normally attending a gala re-opening will be lacking. "Pussy blue" put on during the administration of Lawrence's 10th president from 1944 to 1953, are no closer to actuality than they have been for the last 45 years. One of the economies practised on the chapel during its construction at the sparkles with a coat of bone end of World War I was that white, and the orderly rows of the only rest room and drinking seats create a sea of Lawrence facilities were backstage. The blue and beige. The white and Acoustics have been substituted to backstage was a long blue particularly enhance the full view of the assembled throngs. The remodeling will correct all this in a newly excavated section below the main lobby, but not in time for opening night.

The youthful symphony will and enables an academic pro-for the chapel.

Unpleasant Campaign Finally Nearing End

BY JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP) — One distinction between President of the most unpleasant presi-Johnson and Goldwater: John- dential races in history moves son stood for the welfare state, toward the election only eight Goldwater for real conserva- days off with nothing to indicate tism.

the candidates can say anything. As a result, obvious enough, now to affect the results, the choice the voters make Election Day will shape the distinguished for ham than heat direction of America for years and for slogans than logic, more memorable for name-calling than discussion and for general- ities than gentility.

One pre-campaign prediction turned out early to be true: that it would be rough, perhaps one of the roughest. Now near the end come cries of pain from both sides.

“Venom and Filth”
John M. Bailey, the Demo- cratic national chairman, has appealed directly to Sen. Barry Goldwater to end what Bailey called the flow of “venom and filth the Republican party has injected” into the campaign.

Dean Burch, the Republican National chairman, filed a com- plaint with the bipartisan Fair Campaign Practices Committee, charging the Democrats are waging a “campaign of fear, smear, cover-up, news suppres- sion, arm-twisting.”

This was after Bruce L. Felk- nor, executive director of the committee, had a few words himself to say. He said this was the “bitterest and most vicious campaign that I’ve ever ob- served or, for that matter, heard tell of.”

The committee’s magazine, Fair Comment, added: “The use of guilt by association, frau- dulent documentation, cruel and unusual punishment of whipping boys and evasions of differences may be setting a record” this year.

Differences Known
Yet, in this campaign, for a change, the basic difference between the two presidential candidates was known to all before the campaign began.

For a generation at least the differences between Democrats and Republicans — in their attitude toward life in America and the responsibilities of gov- ernment — were so small that campaign after campaign was a personality contest.

Not this year. From the beginning there was this clear distinction between President Johnson and Goldwater: John- dential races in history moves son stood for the welfare state, toward the election only eight Goldwater for real conserva- days off with nothing to indicate tism.

Since this basic difference between Johnson and Goldwater was clear before the campaign began, the campaign didn’t add much on this score. If that had been all, the voters could have chosen early and forgotten the campaign.

Who Can Be Trusted
It wasn’t The guif between the two viewpoints could not be considered separately from a question of equally fundamental importance.

Which of the two men could be trusted to handle the presi- dency better with all that meant for four years in getting pro- grams through Congress, domestic tranquility, foreign affairs, and perhaps interna- tional crises?

As the campaign goes into its final week Johnson is so opti- mistic that he is not just talking about winning. He is urging voters to give him a “man- date,” which in this case is another word for landslide.

Goldwater is less optimistic as he prepares to campaign these last few days. He is known to rate his chances as less than overwhelming.

The nation will probably outdo the candidates in being glad when this is over.

Mrs. Todd, a widow, is house mother for Phi Sigma Kappa and Republicans — in their attitude toward life in America and the responsibilities of gov- ernment — were so small that campaign after campaign was a personality contest.

“People said I was nuts. I said someday I would go. I’ll do anything they want me to do,” she said Sunday.

Mrs. Todd attended what is now California (Pa.) State Col- lege, West Newton Academy and Penn State. She taught 28 years before retiring. She has two children and seven grand- children.

Pressmen’s Strike Of Detroit Papers Into Its 105th Day

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit’s newspaper strike went into its 105th day today.

Striking Local 13 of the Print- ing Pressmen’s Union rejected Sunday — by an announced 230- 17 vote — a new publishers’ proposal endorsed by President Johnson.

The dispute has closed De- troit’s two daily newspapers.

The pressmen and their affili- ated Plate and Paper Handlers Local 10 struck the afternoon Detroit News and morning Free Press July 13 over terms of new contracts.

Chief issues in the strike are union demands for premium pay for Saturday night work at the Free Press and manpower for printing presses at the News. Washup time also is in dispute.

Basic wages are not at issue. Pressmen are paid $140.55 weekly for a 37½ hour work week. Handlers get $120.

Plans are being made to continue the project next year on a larger scale.

"This was a mark of progress for our country," he declared. "It is always heartening to see the young people take a constructive interest in their community."

Kohls said many tourists commented enthusiastically to him about the guide service.

Speaks at Lucey Dinner Saturday in Green Bay

BY JAMES BARTELT

Post-Crescent News Service

Sen. William Proxmire said Saturday night President John- son "may have prevented a more serious Southeast Asian confrontation" by his unhesitat- ing show of American strength during the Bay of Tonkin tor- pedo boat incidents.

Proxmire was the main speak- er at a fund-raising dinner at the Hotel Northland for the campaign of Patrick Lucey, Democratic Candidate for Lieu- tenant Governor. About 275 per- sons attended the $25 a ticket af- fair

Proxmire said President John- son's handling of the Bay of Ton- kin crisis followed a demonstrat-

Appreciable Effect — Neither of these events ap- pear so far to have had any appreciable effect on his vote- getting prospects

The fact that Goldwater's running mate, Rep. William E. Miller, comes from upstate New York, has not turned the tide for the Republican national ticket

The Niagara Falls Gazette, Miller's home county, declined to sup- port the ticket for the first time in its 110-year history. It said Miller had "acquired a reputa- tion for hitting-below-the-belt politics" and that the image — attractive or unearned — was not

During his tenure as Vice President, Proxmire noted that Johnson had been assigned to journey to Southeast Asia, meet- ing with the heads of govern- ment in the Philippines, South Viet Nam, Thailand, India and Pakistan. Many recall his talks with German leaders, when the shameful Berlin wall was built,

Proxmire said All of this history, Proxmire predicted, demonstrates that the American people have confi- dence in the president's "ability to squarely face and find solu- tions to the foreign affairs prob- lems which will test the United States increasingly in the months and years to come"

A few of the reasons why every family should have a lawyer!

Free booklet shows how he can be invaluable, how to go about choosing him.

Nowadays the family that doesn't know the law—or a lawyer—may well find itself in difficulties. According to the State Bar of Michigan the average citizen "is living in a legal world far too complex to cope with alone and unaided."

You'll learn the urgent truth of these statements once you read "Why You Should Choose a Family Lawyer NOW!" This timely booklet was written for New York Life by Lester David, noted writer, and is approved by the American Bar Association.

Fact-filled booklet. The author gives you many ex- amples of how well-meaning persons have suffered serious loss through ignorance of the law. He shows how a family lawyer can help prevent such difficulties, saving you money as well as time, annoyance, or pos- sibly lasting grief.

Take the case of the man who put his suburban home in his wife's name. "When she died and left no will, he discovered that her relatives were entitled to a share of her property, including the house!" A lawyer would have pointed out the wisdom of both hus- band and wife having made out a proper will—and of keeping it up to date.

How do you choose a lawyer? This booklet suggests several ways, and discusses the cost of his services —which is probably less than you think!

Get your free copy. You'll find this booklet as easy to read as it is worthwhile, as interesting as it is authoritative. To get your free copy, ask your New York Life agent or use the coupon below.

The Issues - V - Wars on Poverty and Crime

Each of the presidential candidates has declared a private war which at least in part seems aimed at slogan-making rather than sincere concern over the needs of the nation. The President's "war on poverty" has been translated into the anti-poverty bill which was rammed through Congress, although the Appalachian relief bill failed of passage. Senator Goldwater's "war on crime" seems aimed at attracting some backlash vote as well as appealing to the general adult concern over juvenile delinquency.

However, both points of view do indicate some basic differences in political philosophies.

The Democratic platform says that "we will carry the war on poverty forward as a total war against the causes of human want . . . move forward with programs to restore those areas . . . which the nation's progress has by-passed . . . help the physically handicapped and the mentally disadvantaged . . ."

In My Hope for America, President Johnson writes "this war on poverty will enlist many recruits. First, almost half a million of underprivileged young Americans will be given the opportunity to develop skills and continue their education and to find useful work. . . . Second, every American community will have the opportunity to develop a comprehensive plan to fight its own poverty in its own way. . . . Third, dedicated Americans will have the opportunity to enlist as volunteers. . . . It is not enough for Congress to pass laws. We will not win our war against poverty until the conscience of the entire nation is aroused. We will not succeed until every citizen regards the suffering of his neighbors as a call to action. . . . Head as well as heart tells us we must act. The poverty of other people is already a mounting burden. . . . Unless we attack the causes of poverty, we are going to be shoveling funds to the tax consumers instead of making them taxpayers. . . . Sometimes greater waste comes from what a society leaves undone. . . . My Administration is dedicated to lifting off the burdens which weigh down our national productivity, our national expansion, and our national prosperity. . . ."

The Republican plank on poverty states that they would "continue . . . practical federal-state-local programs which will effectively treat the needs of the poor, while resisting federal handouts that erode away individual self-reliance and self-respect and perpetuate dependency. . . ."

Speaking in Milwaukee, Senator Goldwater developed this point. The founders of the nation "knew government must stand ready to aid the helpless and support those in need." But they also "wanted citizens to be free to live their own lives, make their own decisions—yes, make their own mistakes and bear responsibility for them. . . . Of course, nobody wants to be poor or worried or frightened or insecure. But do you really believe that government can make you rich and happy and confident and secure?"

In Where I Stand, Goldwater argues against "the economic theories vested in depression, born of depression, and dependent upon doles." Instead of make-work projects, he writes that "Americans want to work. The handout of artificial public works employment is not the American dream. Real security is bought by real work. . . . How tragic it is to attempt to teach youngsters to fell trees and rake leaves in an age of automation. . . . Where are the jobs, the challenges to our skills? Millions of new jobs are, simply and sadly, lost in the limbo of investments not made, risks not taken, enterprise not dared—because of the lack of confidence that becomes a reflex as an economy is regimented and regulated. . . . A free economy cannot flourish under the shadow of a sword clasped by a heavy-handed government, ready to slice off incentives to work, to invest and to earn."

Goldwater says he is against "the gestures of free enterprise while planning new controls . . . the direction of a government establishment that is prepared to nationalize society while paying for it with the fruits of private industry . . . the direction of a nation being led to believe that relief programs can end poverty rather than only institutionalize poverty . . . the direction of a nation that has built the greatest prosperity ever known, by individual initiative, but which now is tempted to forsake that initiative for the illusory comforts of government guardianship. . . ."

To which Johnson retorts "we are not trying to give people more relief—we want to give people more opportunity." The difference is not in aims but in how they are to be achieved—with or without more government involvement. The candidates have consistently followed the philosophies of their parties.

However both candidates do not do as well on the matter of morality.

Senator Goldwater has pledged "an administration that will respect and support, not overlook or undermine, the local law enforcement needed to protect the lives and property of our citizens . . . to make our streets safe. We want to make it safe to live by the law. Enough has been done to make it safe to live outside the law." He charges that the years of liberal government, of permissive policies in homes and schools, of something for nothing, have caused or at least heavily contributed to a lack of respect for law and order.

Unfortunately the Senator has made practically no reference to the failures of the law to protect the lives and property of minorities, particularly in the south. His speeches appear to be aimed only at the concern over riots in the north and juvenile nose-thumbing at the police. Nor does he spell out in any way how the President of the United States, without wielding more federal power, can direct the policies of local law enforcement agencies.

President Johnson does not discuss the subject directly but appears to equate disrespect with the problems of poverty. He writes of the $8 billion a year we spend for police and health and fire departments and the $4 billion for public assistance. "The Great Society rests on abundance and liberty for all. . . . It is a place where leisure is a welcome chance to build and reflect not a feared cause of boredom and restlessness. . . . It is harder and harder to live the good life in American cities today. Expansion is eroding the precious and time-honored values of community with neighbors and communion with nature. The loss of these breeds loneliness and boredom, and indifference." And these, the President implies, are the roots of crime.

Both party platforms have planks on honesty in government. The Democrats say that "every person who participates in government must be held to a standard of ethics which permits no compromise with the principles of absolute honesty and the maintenance of undivided loyalty to the public interest."

The Republican platform specifically charges that "this Administration has impeded investigations of suspected wrongdoing which might implicate public officials in the highest office in the land. It has aroused justifiable resentment against those who use the high road of public service as the low road to illicitly acquired wealth."

President Johnson has refused to discuss the Bobby Baker case in the face of the public suspicion that the White House intervened to prevent a real investigation of the charges until after the election. There is the intimation that the President used his political prestige, if not as President, then as Congressman and Senator, to further his personal financial fortunes. The Jenkins episode has cast a further shadow upon the morality of cronyism.

Senator Goldwater has a blameless record as far as his personal life is concerned. He is respected as an honest man by members of both parties. Unfortunately, his running mate seems to have had some conflicts of interest while serving in Congress although on a far less involved—or less successful—level than those of Bobby Baker. Senator Humphrey has had no accusations made against him as to any conflict of interest.

The Goldwater "war against crime" would seem to have little validity as far as the President lending authority to local law enforcement is concerned. But as a moral leader of the nation, Senator Goldwater has a point. We have disagreed with the anti-poverty program, which Congress passed at the President's bidding, as an unnecessary duplication of present governmental programs and agencies. However, Senator Goldwater's Calvinistic opinion that poverty is almost always one's own fault doesn't square with all the facts of modern-day life.

Farmer Must Learn That Law Of Supply-Demand Is Fiction

Editor, Post-Crescent:

The biggest story in this decade of farm disaster is the NFO because the NFO will either win or lose. If NFO wins the battle for contracts that can turn back big money's bid for agricultural control then no one will doubt its importance. If NFO fails, then at least two million of those now owning farm acres will have to seek their destiny elsewhere, and NFO will still have been the biggest story of the decade if only because it furnished the last hurrah.

Farmers alone can decide whether to use the collective bargaining approach and cancel out the idea that supply and demand will ever give them a fair price, or they can continue sinking in agriculture's economic quicksand. Most farmers understand the work-a-day economics of farming, the marketing structure that he has inherited—the supply and demand fiction—but too few farmers understand the rash economic theories that are being worked against him. The whole structure that was first secured into place with the supply and demand fiction has collapsed everywhere except in farming. The only thing that stands in the way of the farmer is his own lack of understanding of the fiction with which he has been cursed.

The supply and demand fiction which is being drummed with ever-increasing regularity is not a matter of chance. Cost of production prices at the farming level would trigger general prosperity. The economists know this and big money investors know it too. But there is one flaw in giving the present farm economy a shot in the arm. A prosperous agriculture would allow farm owners to hang on to the deeds to their land. This would erase the possibility of big capital making the really big haul. Once the family farm is gone, the big money boys will set their prices the way they do in industry—cost of production plus a tremendous profit.

The "great goal" of the chains and their allies is almost in sight. Within a few years almost all grocery sales will be in the hands of less than ten chains. The really sharp boys have been watching population figures and they can see the tremendous demands that will be made on farm production in less than a decade.

This great producing structure is still in the hands of the family farmer. Will it be forfeited because he swallowed the supply and demand fiction and really thought it could keep him free? This anti-farmer plan has its strongest ally in the largest of all farm organizations. So successful has the movement been to keep farmer fighting farmer, that some have felt compelled to oppose the movement by NFO to better farm conditions by marketing during a holding action even though they had to do it "over their dead bodies."

The CED plan, big money's Committee on Economic Development, is for things to get much worse before they get better, and the "plan" is running a little ahead of schedule. That means that at least two out of every three now on the farm will not be able to stick it out. Which will you choose—to join with other farmers and run your own business or await the quiet, solitary violence of losing your farm? The choice is yours. What will it be?

There's One Old-Time Liberal Left in Town

Editor, Post-Crescent:

The more I read the letters in your paper, I'm convinced that McCarthy's ghost still haunts Appleton. I may be alone but I would like the cry to go forth that there's still one old fashioned liberal still in town.

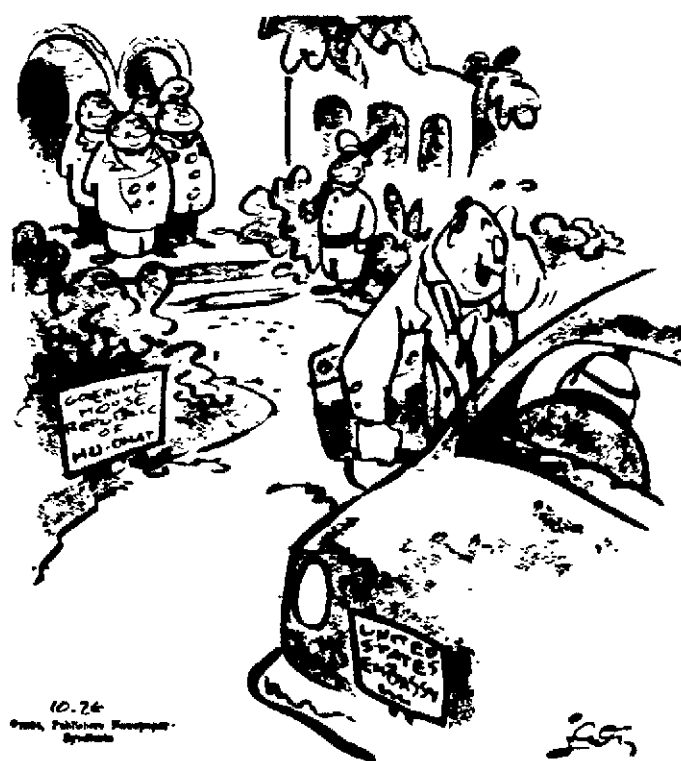

I would like to know how anyone who's sane can compare Johnson and Humphrey to Goldwater—Miller! Especially in the light of those nice people they seem to draw, such as the Birchers, Klu Klux Klan and assorted other white supremacist groups. I think it's time we faced the truth and realize that the only thing Goldwaterism offers is a salve for our conscience, that his State's Rights pitch is no more than a plea for the racist vote. I would advise his followers to read not only Goldwater's books but the books of his right wing supporters and then bear in mind that Adolf Hitler and many others both on the far right and far left wrote such books also. Let's get rid of all these old ghosts.

Rural Areas Are Still Blindly Opposing Any County Board Reform

BY JOHN WYNGAARD
MADISON—Rural resentment toward the county board representation reform movement continues in a pronounced way, as the series of hearings held recently by the legislative study committee showed clearly.

Wyngaard

The resistance would be even more bitterly expressed, except for the realization that if the legislature next year doesn't act to improve the representation formula, the State Supreme Court is likely to intervene and achieve a change in a manner that is likely to be even less palatable.

The theme of the protests and objections by town chairmen and others during the recent round of hearings generally ignored the questions of equity involved. The standard assertion, instead, is that the rural politicians who are so often in control of the urbanized counties are men of good will who are not actually damaging the urban interest.

Occasionally they get unexpected corroboration, as when the mayor of Madison turned up at the hearing last week to say that as executive head of his city administration he had no real quarrel with the way the county board has ruled Dane County. His interest, said Mayor Reynolds, related to the obvious demand among the majority of the urban residents of the county for a reform in the representation arrangements.

THE ISSUE

These men appear quite oblivious to the principle involved in the argument, not to mention the fact that there have been conflicts between city and rural interests in some counties in which the urban view was over-ridden through the circumstance of unequally allocated county board voting strength.

The argument in effect, has it that because the dominant rural bloc on many of the larger county boards have seen fit to play fair with their city neighbors, those neighbors should not rock the boat.

The city residents might reply, it may be supposed, that it is possible to be perfectly happy under a benevolent dictatorship, as many nations of the world have shown, but that it doesn't square with the 20th Century's conception of democratic principles.

The failure of the typical rural opponent of county board reorganization to perceive the idealistic base of the dispute was shown during the brief discussion before the study committee last week of the weighted vote plan for county board members, as an alternative to a more disruptive change. Under such a formula the representative of a low population rural town would get only a fraction of the voting power of the supervisor of a big population city ward.

NO USE ATTENDING

Calculating how he would fare in such a situation, one rural county board member blurted:

"What would be the use of showing up under such a rule of voting?"

It was a revealing question. The answer is that such a supervisor's purpose would be to represent his constituents according to the "one man, one vote" rule which is the essential foundation of democratic government.

That there will be a change in the county board system is no longer seriously disputed by state capitol observers. But it is perfectly evident that the change will come under duress—under the threat of a decree by the Supreme Court which the rural power establishment fears even more than an act of the legislature.

The situation shows the far-reaching repercussions of the state and U. S. Supreme Court decisions in legislative redistricting of recent years. Without those precedents, the recalcitrance of the powerful town and county boards would continue unabated. The chances are strong that the legislature would have no stomach for the task it will be forced to undertake next year.

Do Schools Deaden Appetite to Learn?

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

A four-year-old boy whom I often take for a walk is fond of car-spotting. Not ordinary cars, you understand, but the out-of-the-way models. "There's a Porsche," he will say. "I see a black Jag. And there's a red Alfa."

Harris

I mention this ability not to brag about him, but quite the contrary. What he does is usual among young boys, and not especially bright or precocious. He is just marvelously observant and picks up fast, retains, and enjoys the process enormously.

Now, this is education. Not formal education, but it is exactly what education tries to accomplish in the young: the ability to discriminate, the power to generalize, the zest for coding and correlating information.

Then what happens? The four-year-old becomes an eight-year-old and then a 12-year-old. In the process of aging and acquiring a formal education, he commonly loses the zest. And when the zest goes, the rest goes.

With a few—very few—heartening exceptions, the school system not only fails to stimulate the natural and in-born appetite for learning in the child, but it actually dulls and deadens the intellectual palate. This is true not merely in the primary and secondary grades, but all the way through the colleges.

I was lecturing at an above-average midwestern college last spring, and some of the sophomores came up to talk to me afterwards. What they said, in effect, was "We came here as freshmen hoping to find something we had missed in high school—but it's just more of the same, on a slightly higher level."

It is too easy to indict the school system, or the teachers, for this gross failure to take advantage of the child's desire to learn. It is even too easy to indict the parents for a false or distorted sense of values. "Blaming" gets us nowhere, for those blamed can always point a finger at others equally to blame, and they are right.

Instead of spending billions on new classrooms and books and gyms and audio-visual material, we ought to spend a fraction of this sum on some basic research into the motivations and impediments to learning. We need to know more about the child's emotional structure, his range of responses, the things that encourage or inhibit him from learning.

Most teachers know as little about this as most parents; and school administrators know even less than they. The child itself is the "core" of the curriculum, and no curriculum makes much sense until we understand the dynamics of the young personality, and what happens to change him from a bundle of eager curiosity into a flaccid reciter of facts he neither comprehends nor enjoys. The pupil is the most important subject. (Copyright, 1964)

The Space Agency is looking for scientists to ride in space ships. They must be short—preferably in the legs. Foreheads should be high.

The White House still is not sure who is the top man in that Russian duel. It should be easy to find out—just call up on the hot line and see who answers.

President Johnson says the issue is whose thumb shall be on the button. Goldwater says it's whose thumb is on the country. These boys talk like a couple of hitchhikers.

Khrushchev should feel very flattered at the way things turned out. The Kremlin decided it would take two guys to make that many mistakes.

Looking Backward

GOP Political Straws in the Wind

100 YEARS AGO

Quoted from the Appleton Motor for Nov. 3, 1864.

Straws tell which way the wind blows. S. Ryan Jr., Democratic candidate for Member of the Assembly, and the pompous School Superintendent addressed a political meeting in the Town of Greenville on Wednesday last (Oct. 25).

They had for their audience just three Democrats—one a candidate for office—as many Union men and eight or 10 boys. At the same place, something over a week ago, the Hon. M. M. Davis and Hon. G. H. Myers addressed an audience that filled the room.

The above is a sample of the enthusiasm (!) manifested for the peculiar ideas promulgated by the first mentioned speakers (Ryan and the superintendent) and the whole Democratic ticket, where the people appear pretty well informed in this County. It is pretty conclusive evidence that the Democratic majority of this County is growing beautifully less every day.

Voters who are "halting between two opinions" should let such facts decide them. They should join the Union hosts and cast their votes in favor of restoring the Union in a manner that will be lasting, and as it was given to us by the fathers.

To accomplish this, vote for the candidates for other positions and offices that will co-operate with them.

25 YEARS AGO

Monday, Oct. 23, 1839.

Zane Grey, noted western writer and sportsman, died that day at the age of 64. Most of his novels and stories had been made into movies.

Student executives of the Marion High School weekly newspaper were Bernice Reinke, editor-in-chief; Raymond Brockhaus, junior assistant editor; Dolores Goodstorf, feature editor; Joyce Schroeder, news editor, and May Schewe, chief typist.

Mrs. Margaret H. Irish was toastmistress of the banquet of the Joan of Arc Circle, Daughters of Isabella at Chilton. Presenting short talks on the program were Miss Helen Boll, Mrs. Sadie Schaefer, Mrs. Pauline Fox and Mrs. Catherine Fox.

Joseph E. Garvey, Town of Freedom, was named chairman of the Outagamie County Agricultural Conserva-tion Committee. Others serving on the committee were Irving Neilson, Bear Creek; John Dolan, Kaukauna; Thomas Hardy, Hortonville; J. F. Magnus, Appleton, county agricultural agent, and Thomas W. Dorsey, route 3, Appleton.

19 YEARS AGO

Monday, Oct. 25, 1954.

Tom Russell and Pete Rohe were co-chairmen of the hunter's party being planned by the Menasha Athletic Association. Assisting on the committee were Alex Andrew, Al Omar, Jim Leopold, Louis Anderson and Jim Walbrun.

Members of the Outagamie County budget committee were busy that week discussing county financial plans for 1955. They included George F. Miller, Shiocton; Alvin Fulcer, Kimberly, county board chairman; H. V. Shauger, Appleton; and Malcolm Veitch, Seymour.

Thomas Dietrich, artist in residence at Lawrence College, was to open a modern art lecture series that night at the Appleton YMCA.

Miss Mary O. Leary, home arts teacher and department head at Appleton High School, presented a talk on life in Guatemala and displayed some of the textiles and art of weaving of the country. A recent visitor in the country, Miss O'Leary gave the presentation to students in Spanish classes at the high school. Mrs. Don Himebaugh, Spanish teacher, also commented on life in Mexico, Guatemala and other southern countries.

Space Economics Pose Difficult Questions

BY SYLVIA PORTER

The glamor of our government's space research program has become badly tarnished in the past couple of years — and the program is certainly getting no help now from (1) Sen. Goldwater's call for a sharp cut in spending on space exploration; (2) the Soviet Union's spectacular orbiting of a three-man space crew, thus clearly demonstrating that it is still way ahead of us. Congress is increasingly reluctant to okay automatically the huge budget Aeronautics & Space Administration). While there is no doubt about the military uses of space, there is mounting doubt about economic returns we can expect from space exploration.

No Near Answers

In the economic sphere, what are we getting out of space research? When and where is the pay-off? Will industry benefit greatly or gain next to nothing from the research? Let's admit at the start that there are no neat answers, neatly packaged. We simply do not know when the economic returns will come or what they will be. Nevertheless, several objective observations can be made about the three main economic financial criticism of the program, and, as part of an exhaustive study of the entire $18.7 billion a year research and development industry, McGraw-Hill's Economics Dept. does precisely that.

Criticism 1: Space and government research drains away talent from industry, and, as a result, productive civilian research suffers from lack of talent.

Criticism 2: Organized research — particularly government-sponsored — has led to team research, a stifling of individual creativity and individual incentive, a growth in company patents.

Criticism 3: Space research results in few civilian applications and industry will get no pay-off from the exploration.

Observations: By its very nature, space exploration will lead to the unpredictable. Just a more accurate 5-day weather forecast, for instance, could bring savings of $2.5 billion annually to agriculture; $100 million to surface transportation; $45 million to retail marketing; $15 million to the lumber industry; $5 million in water resource management.

NASA has found 145 examples of technological advance in industry due to space research — ranging from world communication by satellites to unglamorous improvements in welding techniques.

It well may be that industry is lagging in adopting new techniques and products which would immediately obsolete its present facilities. It well may be, too, that we're expecting far too much too soon; 12 to 15 years elapsed between the first jet aircraft in World War II and the first trans-Atlantic jet flight. After adding it up, McGraw-Hill concludes space exploration will bring rewards for consumers, for company profits, for our economy's growth. All my experience and instincts shout that the pay-off will be beyond our wildest imaginations today.
